Star Editor's LETTER

Hello Readers!

Joe Dolce

As the temperatures drop outside, the chilly weather seems to be cooling off some of Hollywood's hottest couples. According to eyewitnesses, Nick Lachey and Jessica Simpson are cozy when the cameras are rolling, but less so when they're not. At a recent birthday bash in Las Vegas, the two sat on separate ends of the table unless the MTV crew was filming for the third season of the Newlyweds. Check inside for all the details. And Gwyneth Paltrow is spending more time alone while her husband, Chris Martin, records a new album in Los Angeles.

But one star didn't notice the cold: Tara Reid, who exposed her surgically enhanced breast on the red carpet at P. Diddy's NYC birthday party last week. One strap of the starlet's ankle-length satin gown slipped down revealing her left breast, but it took several seconds for Reid to feel the chills. Hmm...
